

M'KINLEY'S POLICY WILL BE FOLLOWED.

Tariff Changes to Be in the Way of Reciprocity and not Revision—President to State His Views.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) It is stated here today, upon authority considered unimpeachable, that it was decided at the Oyster Bay conference Tuesday that it shall be the policy of the Roosevelt administration to follow the administration of President McKinley by altering the tariff and extending the trade of the nation through reciprocity rather than by reducing the tariff by the unimpeachable method of revision. It is stated, further, that some time during the tour into the Northwest, upon which he will start tomorrow, the President will state his position upon reciprocity, and that position will be along the lines of the McKinley speech delivered at Buffalo, a year ago this month.

This plan, it is understood, has been agreed upon by the President and his party advisers, offering, as it does, a more speedy and possibly a more satisfactory solution of the question than could be furnished in the effort to revise the tariff schedules at the short session of Congress. Besides, the President and the leading members of his party are not in favor of tariff revision at this time. They believe the agitation which has been created over the tariff-revision plank in the Iowa platform has been greatly exaggerated, and has created a wrong impression throughout the country. In no other State has tariff revision become prominent except in Minnesota. The Republican leaders, with the President, feel that no harm, from a party standpoint, would come from ignoring revision agitation, but they sincerely favor carrying out the reciprocity policy of President McKinley, and will urge its adoption by the coming Congress.

LAND SALES RECEIPTS. (BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Under the law of last June, setting aside for the construction of irrigation works receipts from land sales in semi-arid States, the Geological Survey has organized field parties in various States and Territories where such works are needed, and surveys will be made for the most available sites for reservoirs, etc. The amount available has already reached $20,000, and it is estimated by friends of the project that the increased value of lands rendered fertile by the irrigation system will, within a few years, produce sufficient revenue to carry on the work on a large scale. F. H. Newell, chief engineer of the irrigation branch of the Geological Survey, who has recently returned from an inspection trip to the semi-arid country and sites of the projected reservoirs, expresses great enthusiasm over the plans for the reclamation of millions of acres of land now comparatively worthless. The irrigation system created by law last June, he thinks, will, if successfully administered, result in a large sale.

Lagging Behind in Race for World's Trade.

Russia and England Treating for More Commerce.

Reciprocal Trade Treaties not So Alarming to Powers as to United States.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The United States is lagging behind in the race for the trade of the world. Not in the total amount of goods sold, just at this time, but in provision for the future, and in making preparation for times of stress, when money is scarce and competition reduces margins of profits to the minimum.

The invasion of the foreign markets of the world by the American products continues to be a favorite topic for enthusiastic American writers and foreign alarmists. In the meantime, commercial exchanges and reciprocity treaties are occupying the time and energies of those directing the destinies of America's rivals and America's best customers. Russia and England are treating together for increased commercial exchanges, and with a fair chance of results beneficial to both countries concerned, but not desirable from the American point of view.

Russia is a great agricultural country, which only needs development, transportation and commercial knowledge to become a much greater factor in the food supply of the world than she is now. France is finding English markets a more valuable and profitable trading post. Denmark and Holland lose no opportunity of strengthening their already strong hold upon foreign trade. To all these countries a reciprocal trade treaty appears as a matter of course in cultivating foreign markets. They are entered into with eagerness, rather than with suspicion.

Commercial union, or mutually advantageous adjustment of trade, is the prevailing sentiment at this time, apparently as strong as the tendency toward a combination of private interests.

THE SPEAKER'S SUCCESSOR.

THIRD DISTRICT TO CHOOSE. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) DUBUQUE (Iowa), Sept. 18.—The Republican Congressional Committee of the Third District met here today and decided to call a convention at New Hampton, Iowa, September 24, to select of the delegates to the convention which nominated Speaker Henderson to nominate a candidate to succeed him. This action was taken after a consideration of the Iowa election law. This afternoon, the committee members called upon Gen. Henderson and requested him to reconsider his withdrawal. He declined to do so, saying his decision was final. Before adjournment, the committee made the following statement:

"It is with deep regret that we find ourselves compelled to convene the delegates of this district for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent this district in the national House. This is especially true when we realize that the necessity of such action is caused by the refusal of our present member to accept the nomination heretofore tendered him unanimously by a convention call. In his declaration, we felt that we lose an able and capable leader of great worth and national prominence, such as can be attained only by one of sturdy character, unusual natural ability and ripened experience in the field of statesmanship. We part with him as a leader with reluctance. While thus compelled to release Speaker Henderson, we do so with no feeling that the selection of his successor will be without merit, or that there will result any danger as to the result to the Republicans of this district in the coming election."

WILL HOLD THIS SESSION.

ALLEGATION OF TREACHERY.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The opinion appears to be general here that Speaker Henderson played the baby act. His friends here profess to be utterly at a loss to account for his inexplicable course, but all agree that a nigger in the woodpile will yet be uncovered. A personal friend of Henderson's offers an explanation of his strange conduct in the following statement:

"The whole story is bound to come out," he said today, "and it might as well come out now as at any other time. I regret that the situation is so bad on account of the party, but I heartily endorse Speaker Henderson's action. In fact, he could not honorably and courageously do anything else.

"For some years there has been treachery in the Republican camp. Chairman Babcock, Congressman Hall of Iowa, Tawney of Minnesota and others have been trying to bring about Henderson's defeat for the speakership. They did not want him the last time, but he was too strong for them. Since the Fifty-sixth Congress they have been conspiring to beat him, and on the quiet they gathered enough strength to insure the success of their plans."

"Speaker Henderson, partly by pure accident, learned of these plans, and after close investigation he took the only step that he could take under the circumstances that would be to his own interest and at the same time rebuke his enemies. He has stepped down and out. If he had consented to run for Congress he would have been elected without doubt, but his election to the Speakership would have been next to an impossibility. Mr. Henderson told me he would rather not be in Congress at all than take a back seat at the hands of men who pretended to be his friends."

GLOBE COPPER DISTRICT.

Comprehensive Report on Arizona Mines Made by Dr. F. L. Ransom for the United States Geological Survey. (BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Dr. F. L. Ransom has completed a comprehensive report on the geology and ore deposits of the Globe copper district of Arizona, for the United States Geological Survey. The region is dissected by a remarkable network of faults, of various geologic ages, and the occurrence of ore is related to some of the older of these fissures.

The copper ores hitherto mined in the district have been oxidized, and are consequently free from sulphur, but the exploitation of deeper sulphides ore is yet in its infancy. The district has produced in the neighborhood of 120,000,000 pounds of copper. The greater part of this output has come from the Old Dominion mine, which has for years been working large bodies of oxidized ore found in limestone occurring by the side of a strong fault.

During the present season, Dr. Ransom is to continue the investigation of the copper deposits of Arizona by undertaking a detailed geologic study of the Globe district, in which is the well-known Copper Queen mine.

DAY OF THE CRISIS.
FOR SENATOR BARD.

Night of Restlessness Portends Grave Danger—Change for Better Hoped For, Dissolution Feared.

Senator Bard's condition took a turn for the worse yesterday, and last night those in attendance upon him were not so sanguine of his recovery as on the previous night.

Today will be the ninth day of his illness, and grave fears are entertained that disease will get the mastery over his recuperative powers, and that death will come.

After a restless afternoon and evening he lapsed into a sound slumber at 11 o'clock, under the influence of a drug, and it was predicted that he would sleep until this morning. But the dread crisis was expected after his awakening.

The marked improvement in Senator Bard's condition on Wednesday was of short duration. He enjoyed six hours of refreshing sleep, without the aid of any sedative Wednesday night, and it was hoped that he would be greatly benefited by this natural rest.

But sleep is not all that the distinguished patient needs to woo back his waning strength. The power of his stomach to assimilate nutritious food is a very important factor in the restoration of his health.

Up to yesterday the stomach had performed its functions well—remarkably well, considering his debilitated condition generally. To be sure, he has partaken of no food, except liquid nourishment, in limited quantity, for nine days. But that little he was able to digest, and the stomach gave no serious trouble before yesterday, when gaseous symptoms were manifested, and the egg-albumen that had been administered no longer seemed to be assimilated. This caused nervousness of the patient, headache and weakness of the head.

It had been intended to make a test of the typhoid symptoms yesterday, but it was deemed best not to disturb the patient's rest for any such purpose. If he is infected with any typhoid germs, they should be fully developed by today, the ninth day of his illness, and the making of the test to determine whether typhoid fever has set in, was, therefore, deferred.

The typhoid symptoms were less pronounced yesterday; in fact, seemed to be disappearing altogether. There was no longer any high fever, and for the greater part of the day, the patient's temperature was about normal. As the fever subsided, the heart action also lowered, the pulse beating at 96 to 100 per minute.

This was not taken as a favorable sign after the high tension the heart had been accustomed to for several days. Fears of a collapse of the heart were entertained, and every precaution was taken to guard against it.

The sick man's pulse was very irregular throughout the day, and gave uneasiness. At 6 a.m. it was 120 and temperature 99.6. At 7:45 a.m., pulse, 96; temperature, 99.6; 10 a.m., pulse, 110; temperature, 98.4; 12:15 p.m., pulse, 96; temperature, 98.4; 4 p.m., pulse, 96; temperature, 100; 7:45 p.m., pulse, 112; temperature, 100.6; 9 p.m., pulse, 112; temperature, 100.6; 11 p.m., pulse, 112 and very irregular; temperature, about 100.

No one, except the physicians and nurses and Mrs. Bard, were allowed to see the Senator during the day. The children were permitted to see him momentarily during the day, but were not allowed to tarry or converse with him. At 9 o'clock in the evening he asked to see the children again, but it was thought best not to admit them to the room.

Dr. Taggart remained in close attendance of the patient all day, and had a consultation with Drs. Seymour and Hitchcock about 11 o'clock a.m. All were of the opinion that the vital point was to keep the heart from avoiding a sudden collapse.

As the sick man was unable to get any sleep during the afternoon or evening, and showed increasing restlessness, Dr. Taggart administered a sedative at 10 o'clock, and at 11 he was sleeping soundly. The doctor remained until convinced that the patient would probably sleep through the night, and leaving the two nurses on guard, retired to seek much-needed rest.

At 1 o'clock this morning the distinguished patient was still sleeping. The Senator's physician was not in the hotel, but was within ready reach. The two nurses were on duty, and a careful watch was kept on the sufferer, whose life hangs by a thread.

and while in Japan, in a spirit of mischief, they had their cheeks tattooed a lovely blushing pink.

"The job was done by the finest tattooer in the Empire of Japan, and it simply made the young couple look as if they were blessed with the charming high color of perfect health. Their father, a retired admiral, raged and stormed over it, but the job was done, never to be undone.

"When the two young women grew a bit elderly, still, of course, preserving the peachy color in their cheeks, their women friends accused them, naturally enough, and behind their backs, of course, of using rouge. They have heard both of them, after they had become mothers of families, bitterly bewail their foolishness in having had that extraordinary bit of tattooing performed on their countenances.

"There was a funny tattooing incident on board the ship to which I was attached on the Mediterranean. It was attached on a dozen years ago. The executive officer of the ship—of course you know that the executive officer, or 'first lust', as the bluejackets call him, is, next to the skipper, the biggest man on board a man-o'-war—was perhaps the quietest and most reserved man in the American navy.

"An ensign was sent out to our ship to replace a young man who had been relieved. The new young officer had been the talkiest cadet, perhaps, who ever went through Annapolis, and his penchant for volubility clung to him after he got his commission.

"One day, soon after joining the ship, the young ensign began at the mess table to dilate on the subject of tattooing. He abhorred tattooing. It was a barbarous, silly, disgusting practice, said the young man, and there ought to be a regulation providing that any man, fore or aft, who permits himself to be tattooed, an officer who allows himself to be tattooed ought to be dismissed the service.

"Now, that was pretty warm talk, inasmuch as most of his older men at the table were more or less marked up with the needles, but the older men around a mess table have to make allowances for the rawness of the younger chaps, and so nothing was said. The executive officer regarded the talkative boy with a vague smile

PASTOR SMALE'S TRIAL BUT BEGUN.

THE business meeting of the First Baptist Church, which was held last night, upon the demand made by the opposition to the continuance of Rev. Joseph Smale as pastor, turned out to be a really very slow and tame affair.

There were present at the meeting only 250 out of a membership of 1100. They tried to get under way at 7:30, but an hour later it could scarcely be said that they had started, and it was 11:15 when adjournment was taken until tonight.

H. G. James was elected chairman of the meeting, and after the appointment of secretaries, the reading of the complaint made by the objecting members was taken up. The reading of the first section was called for, and it was read, as follows:

"First—to give Pastor Joseph Smale an opportunity to establish the truth of the following charges, made in his communication to the church on the 3d day of September, 1902:

"When I retired in this pastorate, twenty-one of its membership, according to the vote then taken, were opposed to me. Some of them who have remained on the church roll have never secured their opposition, and in the course of time, by their agitation, have secured sympathizers, until it is now represented that the disaffection is seriously widespread."

"Or, in the event of his failure to establish the truth of said charges, to retract the same by a written communication to each member of the church."

FIVE AROSE.

Immediately upon the completion of the reading, Rev. Mr. Smale took the floor and began the substantiation of his charge by saying: "If anyone feels accused under that, I would like to have him stand."

Five persons stood up, the opposition raising the objection that such action was not substantiation. One of those who stood was Dr. Harlan Dwyer, who said: "Am I one of those referred to in your communication?"

Rev. Mr. Smale refused to answer, but in the language of a member of the opposition, "stood there like a monument of obstinacy."

Prof. Melville Dotter, brother of the other man, but who is counted among the pastor's warmest supporters, then took the floor and said that, in his opinion, the pastor should answer his brother's question.

But Mr. Smale persisted and said that he would not particularize. He then asked all those who knew that there had been opposition to him in the congregation ever since he was pastor of the First Church to stand up. About a dozen rose to their feet, and Mr. Smale at once made the claim that his charge was thereby substantiated.

YEA AND NAY.

It was then decided to take a vote upon the question as to whether the pastor had been sustained in his statement, and the vote resulted in 55 yeas to 84 nays.

The meeting thus far had been very dull and uninteresting, and the majority seized the first opportunity and broke into applause upon the announcement of the vote.

The second section of the complaint was at once taken up, but it was now almost 11 o'clock, and everybody was tired and began to drop out of the house by pairs, until the audience was becoming depleted.

That section reads as follows:

"Second—to consider and pass upon the defense of the alleged 'taglators' and 'sympathizers' to the charges set forth in Pastor Smale's aforesaid communication."

The discussion was not very spirited,

Energetic Circuit Attorney of St. Louis Files Four More Informations for Perjury in the Beagle Cases.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18.—Circuit Attorney Folk today filed information charging former Delegates Hannigan, Denny, Albright and Bersch with perjury. This action was taken as the result of testimony before the grand jury by the accused, who denied any knowledge of the reported payment of $75,000 to members of the House combine by the Suburban Street Railway Company to secure a certain franchise. The information in effect is the same as an indictment, and can, under the statutes of Missouri, be issued at the discretion of the Circuit Attorney. The one member and five former members of the House of Delegates who rest under several charges of bribery and perjury, and who have not yet surrendered to the authorities, have until tomorrow to give themselves up. After that they will be fugitives under the law. If they do not show up during the day Circuit Attorney Folk will issue notices to be sent all over the country, offering a reward of $500 for the apprehension of each of the six men.

The European Kings who are reported to be organizing a league to keep American manufacturers out of Europe will have their trouble for their pains. Beyond question they can organize the league, but what good will that do? Their own people want American goods, the American manufacturers want to and somehow will supply that demand just as they have been doing for years past. The world is moving forward, not back.—[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

MEM OF THE NAVY DONE WITH TATTOOING.

A TIME-HONORED SALT WATER FAD HAS HAD ITS DAY.

Old Sailors Erasing Their Marks When They Can—It's Done by Milk and Toothpick Treatment, but Sometimes There's a Big Surface to Be Covered.

[New York Sun:] "Tattooing may have become the vogue among faddy young men and women of distinction in society, as I occasionally see noted in the newspapers, but it has gone out of fashion among the 'men-o'-war-men,' remarked a naval officer at the Brooklyn yard the other day. "For a number of years past, in fact, the old-timers have been using a certain method to get rid of their tattoo marks. This is the milk-and-toothpick treatment, and it's about the simplest thing in life.

"The sailorman who has a bit of tattooing that he wants to get rid of simply dips a sharp and hard toothpick in milk and jabs away at the mark with it. It is a trifle painful, of course. The skin must be broken all over the surface of the tattooed mark to let the milk into the flesh.

"The milk absorbs the ink, and when the wound heals, the tattoo mark is no longer there. A scar is left, but by no means as bad a scar is left after a tattoo mark has been treated by the electric method.

"In time about every one grows weary of his tattoo marks. The young officers of my day in the old navy nearly all had themselves marked at one of the most famous admirals of the old navy. They accompanied their father out to the China station, and while in Japan, in a spirit of mischief, they had their cheeks tattooed a lovely blushing pink.

ROBBERS' ALLEGED PAL.

Robert Beamish Will Have to Explain His Intimacy With John Finch, the Supposed Highwayman.

Robert Beamish was arrested at an early hour this morning at First and Los Angeles streets by Patrolmen Banks. He was booked at the Police Station as a suspect, and was locked up alone in a cell, in which it will be impossible for him to communicate with other prisoners. As yet no definite charge has been placed against him, but he is suspected of being the companion of John Finch, who was arrested Wednesday morning, and who has since been identified as a highwayman.

The officers learned that Beamish and Finch are very intimate. They roomed together for a time, and at night they were frequently seen together until a late hour. Beamish is said to answer the description of the man who accompanied Finch on the night the robberies were committed. The officers will not state just what their evidence against him is, but the victims of all the recent robberies will be given an opportunity to identify him, if possible.
